Harpers' Magazine' and "Harpers' Story Books" henceforth be welcomed as joint visiters in thouds of families where there are juvenile readers to be ared, as well as adults.—N. Y. Commercial Adver-

We have heard so many fathers and mothers who re-cognize the pleasant duty of guiding the minds of their children in the paths of knowledge at home speak in terms of the highest commendation of this series of books for children, this: we reed a deare to see them universally read among children. They constitute the finest series of books for the young that we have seen.— I conicylic Courier.

Indisville Courier.

All of Abbott's stories are proferred by children to any others, because they contain no narratives of improbable events, but just what might have happaned to any little boy or girl on any day in the year. If parents would place just such books as these in the hands of their children they would find less trouble in governing them.

Vicksburg Whig.

We cannot toe highly commend this earies of story books for children. Mr. Abbott possesses peculiar qualifications for such compositions, and the Christian parent mag safely trust him as a guide to his little ones in the path of goodness.—Sou there Churchman.

Each menth it gladdens us and our household, to say nething of the neighbors who enjoy it with us. Twenty-five cents buys it—the cheapest, richest, and most lasting luxury for the money that we know. Three dollars secures it for one year; and what three dollars ever went so far? Put the same amount in clothes, esting, drinking, furniture, and how much of a substant althing is obtained? If itees, facts and sentiments have a monetary value; above all, if the humar that refreshes, the pleasantries that bring a gentle smile, and brighten the pleasantries that bring a gentle smile, and brighten the pleasantries that the jour brain, and the happy combination of the real and the imaginative, without which me one can live a life above the animal, are to be put into the scale opposite to dollars and cents, then you may be certain that if flarper were three or four times as dear, it would amply repay its price. MACNETIC TELEGRAPH.—MORSE LINE BETWEEN New York, Phifadelphia, Battimore, washington and intermediate stations. Six wires and two lines of poles the entire distance, and seven wires between New York and Philadelphia. Battes reduced and messages insured. Shortest dispatch increased from ten to twenty words. The Morse line of megastic telegraph from Washington to New York, is the first company telegraph line ever constructed in this country, and believed to be the most efficient working line in the world. It has more wires and greater facilities for telegraphing than any other in the United States. With a view to render itevesy more reliable, the limit to the shortest dispatch has been fixed at twenty words, usstead of ton as berefolore, thus removing the inducement of those using the telegraph so to aborting their dispatches as often to render them unintelligible. These undue abbreviations often have led to error in the transmission of dispatches, resulting in loss to the parties interested and in discredit to the telegraph, which is too frequently charged with the errors of careless writers and bad chirography.
